Community Event Criteria Guide

Introduction

On July 1, 2009, the Indian Residential Schools Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) was officially established with The Honourable Justice Murray Sinclair as Chairperson, Chief Wilton Littlechild and Marie Wilson as Commissioners of the TRC.

The Commission will help Canadians learn the truth about Indian Residential Schools (IRS) and encourage the rebuilding of relationships damaged by residential schools.

The TRC was created as a result of the Indian Residential Schools Settlement Agreement (IRSSA) between former students, churches, the Government of Canada, the Assembly of First Nations and other Aboriginal organizations.

The TRC is created by Schedule N of the Settlement Agreement, is court-monitored and reports to the parties to the Settlement Agreement.

More information regarding the TRC and its mandate can be found at www.trc.ca

Community Events – Purposes

One of the mandates of the TRC is to encourage the organization of, and to participate in, “Community Events”. The Settlement Agreement says:

It is intended that the community events will be designed by communities and respond to the needs of the former students, their families and those affected by the IRS legacy including the special needs of those communities where Indian Residential Schools were located.

The community events are for the purpose of:

- a. acknowledging the capacity of communities to develop reconciliation practices;
- b. developing collective community narratives about the impact of the IRS system on former students, families and communities;
- c. involving church, former school employees and government officials in the reconciliation process, if requested by communities;
- d. creating a record or statement of community narratives, artwork as statements; poetry, writing, painting, sculpting – that include truths, insights and recommendations – for use in the historical research and report, national events, and for inclusion in the research centre;
- e. educating the public and fostering better relationships with local communities;
- f. allowing for the participation from high level government and church officials, if requested by communities;
- g. respecting the goal of witnessing in accordance with Aboriginal principles.

The Commission, during the first stages of the process in consultation with the IRSSC (Indian Residential School Survivor Committee), shall develop the core criteria and values consistent with the Commission’s mandate that will guide the community processes.

Within these guidelines communities are actively encouraged to submit Community Event plans for reconciliation processes to the Commission and receive funding for these events within the limits of the Commission’s budgetary capacity.

Community events provide an opportunity for communities to collectively contribute to the truth and reconciliation process. Community records or statement of community narratives will contribute to the TRC final report which will include recommendations to the Government of Canada, these records will then be included in the National Research Centre for future generations.

Although funding for Community Events is limited, all communities are welcome and encouraged to create events and undertake activities that contribute to the truth and reconciliation process.

Individual Statement-Taking/Truth Sharing

The Commission will coordinate the collection of individual statements by written, electronic or other appropriate means. Although the Commission has a five year mandate, anyone affected by the IRS legacy will be permitted to file a personal statement in the research centre with no time limitation.

The Commission will provide a safe, supportive and sensitive environment for individual statement-taking/truth sharing.

The Commission will not use or permit access to an individual's statement made in any Commission processes, except with the expressed consent of the individual.

If communities would like the TRC to coordinate statement gathering at Community Events please let us know. The Commission will take steps to organize this activity with the community and organizers. Health Canada will coordinate health supports for this function if the Commission is invited to provide statement gathering activities.

Community Events – Participation of TRC Commissioners and Staff

The TRC would like communities that organize community events and activities to let the TRC know about their plans. The Commissioners wish to attend as many community events over the five-year mandate of the TRC as they can. When the Commissioners are not available, communities might consider requesting members of the TRC Survivor Committee, Regional Liaisons or other staff to attend the community event. Communities can request that the TRC organize statement gathering from former students and others who attend the community events.

Communities can submit letters of notice, complete the attached Notice of Community Event Form and provide invitation to TRC within the indicated deadlines, available on the TRC website www.trc.ca, over the course of the Commission's five-year mandate.

The Commissioners hope to provide formal statement gathering at every community event they attend. It is important to hear from former students, their families, former staff and other persons impacted by the Indian Residential School experience at each of the community events that they attend.

Health Supports

Health Canada is required by the Settlement Agreement to ensure that health supports are available for all persons who participate in the TRC process, not only on the day of any particular event, but before and after the events as well. In order to provide this support, Health Canada Regional Coordinators will need to be notified about the community event.

More information about the Indian Residential School Resolution Health Support Program and contact information for Health Canada Regional Coordinators can be found at:

<http://www.hc-sc.gc.ca/contact/fniah-spnia/fnih-spni/irs-crpn-eng.php>

Community Events – Funding

The TRC mandate states that “communities may submit plans for reconciliation processes to the Commission and receive funding for the processes within the limits of the Commission's budgetary capacity.” It is an unfortunate reality that the TRC's budgetary capacity is extremely limited. The TRC mandate requires the TRC to undertake a very wide range of activities and achieve a number of specific objectives, and to do this on a national scale. Community events are one part of the TRC's mandate.

From research, the TRC has learned that many communities have already taken their own initiative to plan and organize gatherings and form partnerships to address the impacts and legacy of Indian Residential Schools. Even though funding is limited for all TRC activities, communities are encouraged to take this opportunity to contribute to the truth and reconciliation process.

Eligible Costs

The following costs in relation to community events are eligible for funding provided costs are reasonable, and the TRC is notified in writing in advance of the event. In order to apply for eligible costs to be paid by the TRC, you must complete and submit the Notice of Community Event Form at the end of this Guide. Funding may be provided within the limits of the TRC Community Event budget. It is anticipated that the TRC will not be able to fund more than $15,000 per event.

- Master of Ceremonies Fee
- Translator Fee
- Honourariums for elders conducting traditional ceremonies
- Facilitator(s) Fee
- Travel for the above persons in accordance with the Treasury Board Travel Directive
- Facility rental
- Catering or traditional feast
- Short term rental of equipment as needed
- Report Writer

In addition to the above, the TRC will be responsible for the travel, accommodation and expenses for the Commissioners, and any members of the TRC Survivors Committee or staff who attend, and the costs associated with statement gathering by the TRC.

Other Funding, Partnerships and Contributions

Communities are encouraged to seek out opportunities and to collaborate with other partners and contributors to maximize the benefit and scope of the community event.

Potential partners may include but are not limited to:

- Aboriginal, federal, provincial and municipal governments
- Other Aboriginal communities
- Churches & Church Healing Funds
- Tribal councils
- Non-governmental Organizations (NGOs)
- Local Businesses

NOTICE OF COMMUNITY EVENT FORM

This is a Notice of Community Event Form, and includes a request for funding from the Truth and Reconciliation Commission for a community event. It is understood that the TRC can only provide funding to the extent of its budgetary capacity. If funding is not available communities are encouraged to seek out other funding opportunities as described in the Other Funding, Partnerships and Contribution section of this booklet.

The TRC will review each NOTICE OF COMMUNITY EVENT FORM carefully. In deciding which Community Events to attend, which ones to fund, and to what extent the TRC is able to provide funding, the TRC will seek to ensure that these decisions are guided by the following criteria. Does the event:

Criteria

- focus on survivors and their families and communities;
- opportunity for Statement Gathering
- include community and school histories and documentation (including photographs);
- include both traditional and contemporary artistic expressions of the residential school experience and impact, such as poetry, writing, painting, sculpting, bead or button work, quilting, song writing, films or plays;
- respect the goal of witnessing in accordance with traditional ancestral principles;
- include Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal partnerships and collaborations;
- include reconciliation or commemoration gestures;
- focus on specific perspectives that may be under-represented at general community events;
- invite a broad range of the general public to attend;
- contribute to regional fairness in which communities are funded.
